

The measurement of the Hubble Constant: beyond the cosmic ladder

Z0962251

Submitted: 19th December 2018

Considering the large distances between objects in the universe, astronomers require a method for measuring out this cosmic separation.

References